From the Pastor

A New School Year

The start of a new school year and college semester is upon us! All across this community, students, parents, teachers, and staff members will launch a new academic year, so let's pray for this important time in our community.

Some of the best missionaries we have are the school teachers, professors, staff, and administrators sovereignly placed on our school and college campuses. If you work in the education field on a local campus, we pray that this coming year will be filled with reminders of God's blessings, and that your faithful service to others will be a testimony of God's grace. Thank you for making this community a better place in the name of Jesus!

Book Recommendation: The Problem of God

I recently finished a book that address the questions and objections that people have against the Christian faith. People often cite the problem of hypocrisy, the problem of science, etc., as reasons they don't accept the views of the Bible.

In this well-presented book, Mark Clark, a former skeptic himself, walks through the objections an unbelieving friend of coworker would probably raise to you, and this book gives you some great insights in grasping, framing, and responding to the issues. Although the subjects are weighty, the book is written in an easy-to-understand style. If you want to understand the questions asked by unbelievers and be prepared to respond appropriately, then "The Problem of God" by Mark Clark is for you.

Counseling Ministry

Do you or a friend need some guidance about something you're facing, such as a family problem or personal issue? If so, please remember that our church offers a no-charge counseling ministry, led by three nationally certified biblical counselors as part of the ministry of First Baptist Church Statesboro. To set an appointment or to receive more information, contact our Coordinator of Biblical Counseling at 912.489.7925.
